french toast casserole

This French toast casserole has a crisp brown sugar topping and a moist, custardy middle. To get ahead, assemble it the night before and bake the next morning.

INGREDIENTS

- Unsalted butter, or coconut oil, for the pan
- 1 loaf challah bread, about 1½ pounds, 1 or 2 days old, cut into 1-inch cubes (or similar dense bread)
- 5 large eggs
- ½ cups milk
- 2 Tbsp brown sugar
- 2 tsp vanilla extract
- 1 tsp cinnamon
- ¼ tsp nutmeg
- ¼ tsp sea salt
- Maple syrup, for serving

FOR TOPPING

- 2 Tbsp unsalted butter or coconut oil, melted
- 2 Tbsp brown sugar
- ½ cup chopped pecans

METHOD

Grease a 9x13-inch or similar baking dish. Place the bread cubes in the baking dish.

In a large bowl, whisk together the eggs, milk, brown sugar, vanilla, cinnamon, nutmeg, and salt. Pour the mixture evenly over the bread. If making the casserole ahead, cover the baking dish and refrigerate overnight. Otherwise, let stand for 30 minutes at room temperature to allow the bread to soak up the egg mixture.

Preheat the oven to 350°F

Drizzle the casserole with the butter and sprinkle with the brown sugar and pecans. Cover and bake for 35 minutes, then uncover and bake for another 10 to 20 minutes, or until the topping is browned and the egg mixture has mostly set. Remove from the oven, cover loosely with foil, and let stand for 10 minutes.

Serve with maple syrup.

head start with plant starts

1

Harden off your baby plants - store-bought seedlings are already hardened off and ready to go in the ground

2

Choose an overcast day, wait until cool evening or use cold frame so as not to shock your plants

3

Prepare holes a little wider + deeper than current pot, with space in between

4

Add topsoil + compost to promote root growth and give an early nutrient spike

5

Place plants in their holes, fill with more soil + water well

6

Water regularly. Keep an eye on pests. Weed often. And watch your babies grow!

classic tuna poke bowl

(from Whitewater Cooks - More Beautiful Food)

MARINADE

- ½ cup soy sauce
- 3 Tbsp toasted sesame oil
- 1 inch ginger, minced
- 2 Tbsp green onions, sliced
- ¼ cup cilantro, chopped
- 2 Tbsp sesame seeds or macadamia nuts, chopped
- jalapeño pepper, sliced (optional)

BOWL

- 250g Ahi tuna, cubed
- 1 cup brown rice
- Sunflower sprouts
- Cucumber, sliced
- Edamame beans, cooked
- avocado, sliced
- nori sheets, cut small
- cilantro, chopped (garnish)
- sesame seeds (garnish)
- green onions, sliced (garnish)

METHOD

Combine marinade ingredients in a medium bowl. Add cubed tuna to marinade and mix through. Place in fridge for up to 4 hours to marinate. Meanwhile, cook the rice and edamame beans. Prepare the fixings by slicing avocado and cucumber. To plate, start with rice in a bowl and then arrange cucumber, avocado, edamame, tuna, nori and top with sprouts, cilantro, green onions and sesame seeds.

castor oil

Castor oil has been used for generations as a therapeutic compress - applied with heat, it supports lymph circulation and drainage while its anti-inflammatory and analgesic compounds help reduce pain, swelling, and congestion.

USE AS A WARM COMPRESS

Soak a piece of flannel in the oil, cover with plastic wrap or a castor pack wrap, and apply a hot water bottle for 30-60 minutes. Use 1-3 times daily for acute conditions, or 1-3 times weekly for chronic ones. Do not apply to open wounds.

Conditions that respond well include muscle sprains, joint pain, post-surgery swelling, chest congestion, indigestion, menstrual cramps, and swollen lymph nodes.

FOR SKIN AND HAIR

Castor oil's hydrating, antimicrobial, and anti-inflammatory properties make it effective for dry or inflamed skin, acne, eczema, psoriasis, dandruff, and dry scalp. Mix 1:1 with a carrier oil - jojoba, almond, apricot, grapeseed, or rosehip - for face, scalp, body, hair, or eyebrow application.

meet the makers

Karen Clark and Alain Ménard are a biochemist and a microbiologist. They knew exactly what was in conventional personal care products, and decided to make something better. That was 2002, in Hawkesbury, Ontario.

It started in their kitchen. Karen quit her job at a pesticide company, bought her own lab equipment, and started formulating. Alain followed when his sister was diagnosed with advanced breast cancer and their son was born. They needed to know there was a safer option.

Today they manufacture everything themselves, hold Ecocert certification, and were first to market with an organic mineral sunscreen in Canada. Their castile soap is made with organic Canadian sunflower oil. Their newest deodorant actually absorbs sweat rather than blocking pores.

Green Beaver was born from a mission, not a business plan. They wanted to show that alternatives to chemicals exist, and that choosing them shouldn't mean compromising on what works.

spring allergies

Spring brings warm weather, longer days, and budding trees, but for allergy sufferers, it can mean a season of sneezing and sniffles. Pollen from trees, grass, and weeds enters the nasal passages, triggering the immune system to release histamine and cause allergy symptoms.
